

'Draft Kennedy' Gains Momentum as Ted Gauges Depth of Movement

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
CHICAGO — Stephen E. Smith said Tuesday that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's name "will be withdrawn" if it is placed in nomination for the presidency Wednesday.

Smith, the Massachusetts senator's brother-in-law, did not go so far as to suggest that Kennedy would refuse the nomination if it were thrust upon him by the Democratic National Convention. He said there remained "a slim chance" of Kennedy being chosen in a bona fide draft.

Informed sources disclosed that the senator tentatively planned to fly to Chicago on Thursday.

From his summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass., Kennedy kept in constant touch by telephone with political associates in this convention city. He appeared to be attempting to gauge the depth of the "Draft Kennedy" movement that began in earnest late Sunday.

Gerald Dougherty, a former Massachusetts state Democratic chairman who had advised the Kennedys for years, said that if a draft seemed to have a good chance of success, "the whole convention goes into a new focus" and Kennedy would be forced "to reassess his position."

Kennedy asked former Gov. Michael V. Di Salle of Ohio Monday not to nominate him. Di Salle agreed, but told the senator that the draft boomlet had "gone too far to be stopped." He predicted that someone he would not specify who would make a nominating speech at the convention session Wednesday.

However, in an interview Tuesday, Smith said the senator would not permit this. He said that, after a study of precedents, a disclaimer from Kennedy might be left with the chairman of the convention for use in case a nominating speech was made, or that someone might be designated to speak for the senator from the podium.

The Kennedy strategy appeared to be: Wait and don't push.

A number of persons who had talked with the senator said they were persuaded that he wanted to be president and that he thought he had some slight chance to be nominated, but that he felt he must avoid at all costs creating the impression of a stark lunge for power.

Given these circumstances, Kennedy backers said, the best procedure seemed to be to try to promote endorsements from key party figures Wednesday. They said the attitude of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago might well prove decisive.

Kennedy gave grim orders to his associates here to do nothing that could be interpreted as campaigning.

"I'm frustrated as hell," said Lester Heyman, the Massachusetts state chairman. "I had a stream of delegates into my suite until six o'clock this morning. All they want is a green light and that's exactly what I am unable to give to them."

Smith made the same point, asserting that "no one is going to find a shred of evidence that the senator is working for the nomination."

Hundreds of delegates seemed perturbed about the prospect of a Humphrey-Nixon contest this fall because they thought it unlikely that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey could win and because they thought he would hamper the Democratic ticket in local contests.

Dougherty and other Kennedy advisors agreed that the convention was "fundamentally unhappy," as one of them put it, about the prospect of a Humphrey nomination, but they remained unconvinced, for the most part, that Humphrey could be stopped.

Robert Fitzgerald, a first cousin of Kennedy, said he considered the draft movement so far "very superficial." He was sent to Chicago by the senator to evaluate the situation.

Kennedy's actions, although they hampered the draft movement, did not halt it. Monday night, petitions calling for Kennedy's nomination were circulated on the convention floor, mainly by members of the 174-vote California delegation, which was originally pledged to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Di Salle said at least 700 of the 2,667 delegates had signed the papers.

The draft-Kennedy headquarters, which opened Monday morning in a tiny room at the Sherman House Hotel, then moved into larger quarters in the afternoon, and moved again Tuesday into the hotel's sixth-floor parlors.

Richard Celeste, a 30-year-old former Rhodes Scholar from Lakewood, Ohio, continued to function as the ad hoc director of the movement. He said Tuesday that "someone will nominate Senator Kennedy — no equivocation at all on that."

CHICAGO (AP) — Platform Chairman Hale Boggs triggered the long-expected Vietnam floor fight early Wednesday among divided and battle-weary Democratic convention delegates by calling for "a lasting and honorable settlement"—but not a unilateral bombing halt.

That was the signal for some 30 insurgents on Boggs' 110-member platform committee to hurl their challenge—a motion that the delegates approve, instead, "an unconditional end to all bombing in Vietnam."

By the time the battle over the Southeast Asia plank began—nearly seven hours after the session convened on Tuesday night—the platform rebellion had become also a last-ditch stop-Humphrey movement.

Some members of the peace faction charged that the official plank was largely written by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's men.

A strong vote for the minority plank could give a boost to the presidential hopes of McCarthy, Brown indicated, even if the peace faction should lose by a narrow margin.

Few delegates could have read or even seen the 18,000-word platform—nearly half again as long as the one on which Republicans have pitched their claim to the White House—before filing into International Amphitheatre for the platform showdown. The document was finished only late Monday and released to the press at mid-night.

Humphrey supporters held that the minority plank would give away the president's whole bargaining strength in any peace talks, and would commit the United States to a dangerous de-escalation without assurance of mutual restraint by North Vietnam.

The committee version also would encourage "all parties and interests" in South Vietnam to agree that fair and safeguarded elections, open to all major political factions who would agree to peaceful processes, should determine the

Dubcek Asks Czechs to Face Democratization Slowdown

PRAGUE (AP) — Alexander Dubcek asked the Czechoslovak people Tuesday night to face up to a slowdown in democratization under terms laid down in Moscow. His voice heavy with emotion, the Communist chief pleaded for help as he tries to rule amid thousands of Soviet troops continuing their occupation.

With the short-lived freedom of speech and press certain to be curbed, Dubcek said the "new realities which Czechoslovakia faces create new tasks for us."

He called for trust "even if we shall have to carry out some special temporary measures restricting the degree of democratization, the freedom of speech we have already achieved. But I am asking you to realize the times we live in."

Back from Moscow, Dubcek said the agreement there for withdrawal of the occupation troops is the basis for the road Czechoslovakia must travel. He said troops will be removed from cities and towns into special areas if Czechoslovak authorities are able to maintain order.

Demonstrators ripped down pictures of Dubcek and President Ludvik Svoboda and

Enemy Rockets Blaze Into Fringe of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners sent four rockets blazing into Saigon's southern fringe late Tuesday, killing one civilian and wounding four others, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

The 107mm rockets crashed into the vicinity of the "Y" bridge, with all of the casualties inflicted by one of the missiles that hit a house.

The fire attack was mild compared to the one last Thursday when a barrage of 22 rockets impacted in the heart of the capital, killing 18 persons and wounding 69.

The shift to less costly rocket and mortar attacks appeared the result of heavy combat losses to the enemy in their latest ground offensive.

The allied command reported barrages against camps and towns from the demilitarized zone to the Mekong Delta Tuesday. Casualties and damage were described as light.

The latest attacks followed nine days of intensified ground fighting that cost the enemy 7,500 dead, according to U.S. estimates.

Heaviest hit in Tuesday's shelling was Fire Base Rawlins, an American artillery post along a jungle infiltration corridor 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

Enemy gunners poured in about 200 rounds of rocket and mortar fire and followed it with a weak infantry assault that was repulsed.

No Americans were killed, headquarters said, but a sweep of the battlefield turned up 25 enemy bodies. A number of the enemy apparently were killed by American artillery and helicopter gunfire.

Besides the 200-shell barrage at Fire Base Rawlins, an outpost of the 25th Infantry Division, enemy gunners raked four other posts along the infiltration route northwest of the city.

State GOP Women Push Nixon-Agnew Campaign

The Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women has announced plans to get the Nixon-Agnew campaign off to a fast start in Pennsylvania with a series of political activities conferences.

Mrs. George Thackie of Curwensville, state council president, said seven regional conferences between Sept. 10 and 20 "will open the door to a concerted drive by women in behalf of our national and statewide nominees as well as district candidates for Congress, state senate and state house of representatives."

Mrs. L. B. Gezon of Erie, council's state political activities chairman, said that in addition to asking district candidates to be guests at conferences in their area, invitations to attend any or all sessions have been sent to Republican state nominees: For U.S. Senator, Richard S. Schweiker, Montgomery County; for Superior Court, Judge John B. Hannum, Unversity; for Auditor General, Secretary of Revenue Warner M. Depuy, Millard and for State Treasurer, Frank J. Pasquerella of Johnstown, a contractor.

The seven conferences, which will include women of all 67 counties, will be devoted to panels or workshops starting at 10 a.m. with luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Candidates generally will speak at the luncheon or afternoon session. Morning participants will be Mrs. Thackie, Mrs. Gezon, Mrs. Peter Honoman, vice chairman, state Republican Committee; Miss Sarah Ann Stauffer, Pennsylvania member of Republican National Committee and persons prominent in the region in which the conference is being held.

The conference for the Northwest Region, which includes Warren County is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 12 at New Lithuania Club, W. Weber avenue and Chester street in DuBois. Conference chairman is Mrs. Thomas J. Moody, DuBois. Registrations at $3.50 must be made by Sept. 6 to Mrs. George Hodge, 224 N. Church st., DuBois, 15801.

Bombing Halt in Viet Proves Big Issue In Platform Battle

CHICAGO (AP) — Platform Chairman Hale Boggs triggered the long-expected Vietnam floor fight early Wednesday among divided and battle-weary Democratic convention delegates by calling for "a lasting and honorable settlement"—but not a unilateral bombing halt.

That was the signal for some 30 insurgents on Boggs' 110-member platform committee to hurl their challenge—a motion that the delegates approve, instead, "an unconditional end to all bombing in Vietnam."

LBJ Implies He Hopes HHH Will Be Winner

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
AUSTIN, Texas — President Johnson implied clearly today that he hopes the Democratic presidential nomination will go to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who has supported his Vietnam policy.

At an impromptu 60th birthday news conference late this afternoon at the home here of his daughter, Luci, Johnson expressed a hope that the attitude toward Vietnam of both major presidential nominees would not be "too divergent" from his own to avoid adversely affecting the preliminary peace negotiations in Paris.

The influence of Johnson's remarks was that the nomination of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy might result in a hardening of the North Vietnamese position on the assumption that they might obtain major concessions from the United States if he were nominated and subsequently elected president.

Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee, holds views on Vietnam approximately parallel to those of the president.

VOTING POSTPONED UNTIL TODAY

Also on the rebels' side was the avowed non-candidate, Sen. Edward P. Kennedy of Massachusetts, whose supporters pushed a draft-Teddie movement in every corner of Chicago's jam-packed International Amphitheatre.

Reserving far more options to the president than the minority statement—the committee plank pledges a bombing halt "when this action would not endanger the lives of our troops" and taking into account a response from Hanoi.

The 110-member Platform Committee headed by Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana chose the latter version by the 2-to-1 majority.

But McCarthy supporters predicted the minority plank would win far greater support proportionately in a convention vote because peace sentiment is strong in some of the biggest and predominantly urban delegations.

Ike's Doctors Voice Cautious Optimism

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's doctors voiced "cautious optimism" Tuesday that he might survive his 11-day old heart attack.

Their report in a medical bulletin at 10 a.m. EDT appeared—a face value at least—to be their brightest word yet on the seventh heart seizure suffered by the durable general.

Nevertheless they said they rate his over-all condition as "still critical."

Living Costs Mark Sharpest Rise in 11 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back-to-back increases in June and July scored the sharpest rise in American living costs in 11 years, the Labor Department reported Tuesday.

The climb was one half of one per cent for each of the two months.

But the government holds out hope the cost upsurge will level off when the August figures are in and continue that way through the winter months.

The charges that people pay for services continued their rapid advance in July. Their 0.7 per cent rise accounted for more than half of the total increase in the consumer price index, which hit 121.5. This was 4.3 per cent higher than a year ago.

Wholesale prices also rose in July to a point 2.4 per cent above last year but the government said indications are for a small decline in over-all wholesale prices through August that should show up to the benefit of retail buyers in a month or two.

The interest people pay for home mortgages went up again in July about 4 per cent. This was 13 per cent above last year's level and property taxes and insurance rose again as did the cost of home decoration and repairs.

Medical care costs also added to the rise in living expenses, resuming their rapid climb, after a slowdown in the late spring months, with a 0.7 per cent advance. Doctor and dentist bills and hospital costs all increased.

An advance of 0.8 per cent in retail food prices was smaller than is usually expected between June and July. But a further climb in the cost of groceries is expected to result from a rise in wholesale food prices in July, primarily for meats and poultry but with the cost of fresh fruit, eggs and break also contributing to the expected additional cost of the market basket.

Wholesale prices for clothing remained steady in July but there was a less-than-usual drop in retail prices that result from summer sales.

The price tags on new cars dropped more than usual during the month as wholesale prices were reduced in the summer effort to clear stocks and make way for new models.

The rise in living costs will mean extra pay automatically for about one million workers whose labor contracts take such costs into account.

About 800,000 workers in auto, mobile and related industries and in farm and construction equipment will get 8 cents an hour additional. Another 100,000 workers in the aerospace industry will receive a 4 cent increase based on the national index of prices since April. Another 100,000 workers in various industries will get wage increases ranging from one cent to 6 cents.

Gross earnings of rank and file workers in July rose by 57 cents to $109.16 weekly. But the cost-of-living advance ate up all but about two cents of the increase.

Take-home pay rose 43 cents in July for single workers and for workers with three dependents.

All-Invited Tonight to Help 'Boost Kinzua Country'

The "Boost Kinzua Country" campaign is rapidly gaining momentum with preliminary plans for the program to be outlined at a 7:30 p.m. meeting tonight in the Northwest Savings and Loan hospital room. All interested persons are invited to attend this all important session for the purpose of putting together a program that'll be both informative and entertaining to the almost 50 columnists, magazine writers and television commentators who'll visit the area October 4, 5 and 6. This select group of outdoors spokesmen will get a first hand look at the area's vast expanses of unspoiled forest and stream and in turn will spread the word about what Warren and Forest counties have to offer outdoorsmen, sportsmen and vacationers.

Rep. Hale Boggs In Convention No. 1 Hot Spot

CHICAGO (AP) — Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana is only No. 3 in the Democratic leadership of the House. But in Chicago he found himself in what could well have been the Democratic National Convention's No. 1 hot spot.

Chairman of the Platform Committee, Boggs has to preside over the kind of row that is a regular's nightmare—the fight over a Vietnam peace plank that amounted to a battle between Democrats supporting a Democratic President's policies and others trying at all costs to disassociate themselves from them.

The fight broke open in Boggs' committee, split that group and headed to the convention floor precisely as predicted—but Boggs came out of it all decked with verbal garlands from both factions for fairness and parliamentary skill.

There was no question of Boggs being neutral in his own politics within the party. He has been one of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's top supporters from the start and he is close to President Johnson. Beside being House whip, ranking after the speaker and majority leader and responsible for rounding up votes for administration measures, Boggs often carries the administration banner among the less than docile Democrats of the Ways and Means Committee.

Moreover, the whip and his wife are on easy social terms with the Johnsons, who attend Boggs parties and weddings.

But there wasn't a complaint that Boggs had abused his chairmanship at the expense of administration critics.

On the contrary, such Vietnam peace advocates as Theodore Sorensen of New York and Kenneth O'Donnell of Massachusetts volunteered plaudits after the showdown meeting of the committee. Another insurgent, John J. Gilligan of Ohio, described Boggs as "an old pro, smooth—and fair."

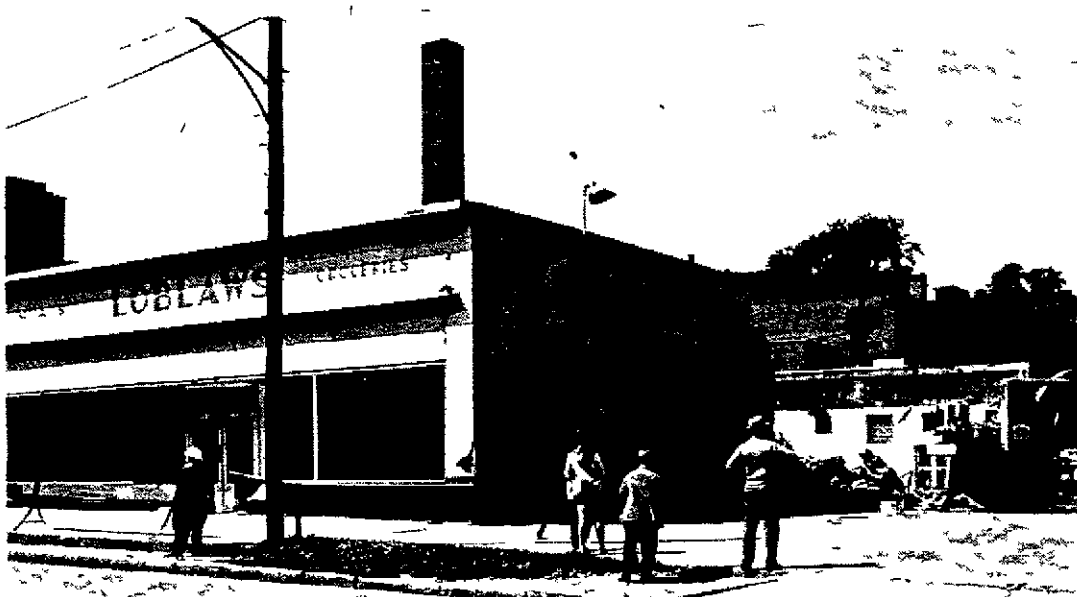

Boggs, a notable host with a New Orleansian's appreciation of good fare and fun, combines affability with political skill learned the long and hard way. Now 54, he has been in Congress since 1940, with time out for World War II service. Yet he rarely enjoys the Southern luxury of a worry-free re-election campaign. His voting record has been described as being about as liberal as any deep Southerner could have and still remain in Congress.

Salary Increase Averts Jamestown Teacher Strike

JAMESTOWN — The Jamestown School Board averted a possible teachers strike when they approved a new salary schedule Tuesday afternoon for the city's 400 teachers.

The salary schedule provides a beginning salary of $6,600 for a teacher with a bachelors degree with no experience, $800 more than the starting teachers salary in 1967. A teacher with a masters degree will start at $7,187 with the schedule going to about $12,000.

At least one school board member, the Rev. George F. O'Pray attempted to amend the resolution adopting the salary schedule. Rev. O'Pray voiced "great concern" over the progressive index system and its effect on city taxpayers. The progressive index system has been the source of considerable

Pennsylvania's Clark Endorses McGovern for Nomination

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania abandoned his uncommitted status Tuesday and endorsed Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Clark, who is seeking reelection to a third term, gave several reasons for his action, including McGovern's position in favor of halting the bombing of North Vietnam.

"We agree on the means for bringing the war in Vietnam to a speedy and honorable end," Clark said in a news conference at which he was introduced by McGovern.

Earlier, Clark had informed Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh, chairman of the 162-member Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic National Convention, of his support for McGovern.

Clark's was the only one of Pennsylvania's 130 votes committed for McGovern. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had the commitment of 93½ votes, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota had 19 votes.

There remained 14½ votes uncommitted within the delegation. President Johnson had one vote and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts had ¾ of a vote.

Clark, a critic of the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy, said he believed McGovern was "eminently qualified" to be President "on grounds of temperament, experience and integrity."

The Pennsylvania senator also said he felt McGovern had the best chance of all announced candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination to defeat Republican Richard M. Nixon in November.

Clark said he had the "highest regard and respect" for Humphrey and McCarthy and pledged to support either one of them if nominated at the convention. However, Clark said he would not support any platform plank on Vietnam that in essence vindicated the administration's policy of continued limited bombing over North Vietnam.

Clark's endorsement of McGovern in the face of virtually unanimous support for Humphrey among the top leadership of the Pennsylvania Democratic Party once again casts the senator in the role of a political maverick.

Four years ago, Clark helped Genevieve Blatt, former state secretary of internal affairs, to defeat the party's organization candidate for the U.S. Senate in a primary fight. While winning the primary, Miss Blatt lost the general election to Republican Hugh Scott.

Clark was asked if his support for McGovern would help or hurt him in his reelection campaign against U.S. Rep. Richard Schweiker, the Republican nominee for the senator's seat. "If I didn't think it would help, I might not be so idealistic," Clark said.

Demonstrators Protest Suppression of Rights

CHICAGO (AP)—A group of about 100 demonstrators walked seven miles Tuesday "to express concern over the violent suppression of human rights now taking place in Vietnam, Czechoslovakia and Chicago."

The demonstration was in sharp contrast to those of the previous two nights in which police, using tear gas and night sticks, dispersed crowds of hippies and Yippies (Youth International Party) in scattered parts of Chicago during Democratic National Convention week.

Sofar, 154 persons have been arrested and about 50 injured. The men and women walked to within a half-mile of the international Amphitheatre, where the Democratic convention is being held, on the South Side.

They were stopped there by police and barricades that stretched across Halsted Street at 39th Street. That is the northern border of a mile-square tight security zone.

Spokesmen for the group said they planned to walk to an open area about two blocks away and conduct a 24-hour vigil.

The demonstrators included several clergymen and one nun. Some of the marchers wore black crepe. One held aloft a crucifix on a long pole.

Some of the demonstrators carried signs reading, "We mourn the suppression of human rights—Vietnam, Czechoslovakia, Chicago." A small group of young persons gathered in a service station parking lot at 39th Street.

They were evidently neighborhood kids. One of them yelled to the demonstrators, "Hey, do you speak English?"

The participants called their demonstration a "walk and vigil of mourning."

The marchers issued a statement saying they were mourning "the violent suppression of freedom by the United States government in Vietnam and in American ghettos, by the government of the U.S.S.R. in Czechoslovakia, and by the city of Chicago, whose armed forces are arrayed this week against citizens seeking to participate in the making of decisions which affect their lives."

Duchess Dies

LONDON (AP)—Princess Marina, dowager Duchess of Kent and one of the world's great beauties in her time died of a brain tumor Tuesday at Kensington Palace.

A child of the Greek Royal family, she married Prince George, Duke of Kent and Queen Elizabeth's Uncle in 1934.

Races Scheduled

The Rolling Rock Steeplechase Races, held each year for the benefit of the Home for Crippled Children, Denniston Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., will be held Wednesday, Oct. 2 and Saturday, Oct. 5.

Platform

postwar government of South Vietnam. International supervision of the voting was suggested.

The minority plank would encourage negotiations to bring the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, into an interim Saigon government pending final negotiations, and would reduce search-and-destroy missions by U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

The committee-approved platform calls also for:

—A vigorous campaign against lawlessness of every sort, together with "an attack on the root causes of crime and disorder." It vows: "We must not and will not tolerate violence."

—Effective gun-control legislation and enforcement. But it does not specify the registration

—A vigorous campaign against lawlessness of every sort, together with "an attack on the root causes of crime and disorder." It vows: "We must not and will not tolerate violence."

—Effective gun-control legislation and enforcement. But it does not specify the registration of firearms or licensing of owners.

—Doubling of the rate of homebuilding, to an annual volume of 2.6 million dwellings, with first emphasis on low-income housing and freedom of choice without racial restrictions.

—An overhaul of the tax structure, with the closing of preferential loopholes and measures to insure that affluent Americans do not escape tax payments through special tax shelters.

—Votes for 18-year-olds and a new draft system of random selection, to shorten the period of draft eligibility.

—Endorsement of the riot commission's recommendations that the country be spared from a division into two societies—one black and one white.

—Creation of jobs and the expansion of job training in the slums by government-industry cooperation.

—Making the government "the employer of last resort" for those unable to find jobs in private enterprises.

Berks County on Verge Of Botanical First

READING, Pa. (AP)—Berks County might be on the verge of a botanical first, "weiss aer-beere," or, translating from Pennsylvania Dutch, white strawberries.

Wild white strawberries are on the 11-acre farm of John Long of Rt. 1, Bernville. For the last 54 years, John and his father have carefully plowed around the berry patch, nestled snugly under protective cherry trees.

The fact he is the only known person who has white strawberries pleases Long, but he's not awed at the possibility of being on the brink of a discovery.

He merely tells his friends: "They need more shade than the red, wild strawberries. That's why they do best under cherry trees."

Interest and excitement, however, were in Samuel C. Gundy's voice when he was informed about the apparently unknown berries.

Gundy, a member of the science department of Kutztown State College, pointed out that possibly an unusual mutation has taken place in the strawberries.

"Normally, when the color pigment of a plant is missing, it will hinder the growth pattern," Gundy said, "but in this case, it looks like just the fruit portion is affected, possibly developing a new and pure strain."

Local Bridge Team Goes to Pittsburgh

The Warren Bridge Team will compete in finals for the knockout championship, team of four in Pittsburgh Thursday.

The local team, which is comprised of Dr. R. H. Israel, Robert Sokoski, J. R. Valone and Hal Conarro, won the right to enter the finals by recently defeating a Pittsburgh team in a semi-final match. The finals will be played on Vue-Graph and television.

Warren's opponents will be the winner of a Cleveland-Akron match.

TAGGED FOR SECURITY

Television viewers have seen delegates and others at the Democratic National Convention wearing plastic tags. In the interests of tight security, these are coded three ways. Tag borders are colored according to where the wearer will be in the convention hall. Each person receives a tag for each of the days of the convention—they were lettered red for Monday, black for Tuesday and will be green today and orange tomorrow. The tags are also treated with an electronically coated metallic substance, set in a pattern. Each person entering the hall must insert his tag in a machine, shown above, that will flash a green light if authentic. He inserts the tag into a second slot when he leaves.

The Complete Quiche for Sunday Brunch Easy Recipes

Sunday brunch is one of the best of all possible ways to entertain. Menus needn't be involved or lengthy; you're not serving a three-course sit-down dinner. And in the relaxed, lazy atmosphere of a summer Sunday morning, guests enjoy helping themselves and the hostess. A perfectly marvelous brunch, designed for service on the patio, porch, or garden terrace, is built around Complete Quiche, so-named because it has everything you need for breakfast except the juice. Bacon, eggs, Swiss cheese, sauteed onions (you don't really need these but they're too good to leave out), and crunchy nut-like cereal nuggets are baked in a pie that makes a truly dainty dish. (Incidentally, this cereal quiche is equally good for Sunday night supper or family dinner, so hang on to the recipe.)

EASY ENTERTAINING
For a summer Sunday brunch on the patio or terrace, the menu is built around Complete Quiche — the quiche that has everything! To make this dainty dish, bacon, eggs, cheese and cereal nuggets are baked in a pie with marvelous flavor and texture.

nished with sliced straw-berries, on a large platter. Have plenty of hot coffee and sweet rolls on hand from which guests can help themselves, along with a pitcher of iced orange-flavored instant breakfast drink.

Another good main dish for brunch or supper is Cottage Cheese Omelet, filled with the same cereal nuggets, smothered in tomato sauce, and containing only a comforting 206 calories per serving.

COMPLETE QUICHE
1/4 pound sliced bacon
1 lightly baked 10-inch pie shell
1 cup thinly sliced onions
1/2 cup crunchy nut-like cereal nuggets
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup (1/2 pt.) heavy cream
1 cup milk
1 cup grated Swiss cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Bacon curls and watercress (optional)
Fry bacon until crisp, drain on absorbent paper, and crumble into bottom of pie shell. Sauté onions in bacon drippings until tender and slightly browned; then drain on absorbent paper. Combine cereal, eggs, cream, milk, cheese, salt, and pepper. Stir in onions. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 425 degrees for about 30 minutes or until top is browned and puffed. Garnish with bacon curls and watercress. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

NOTE: If rim of pie shell becomes overbrowned during baking, cover only the crust with pieces of aluminum foil.

COTTAGE CHEESE OMELET
1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes
1/4 teaspoon onion salt
Dash of pepper
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon onion salt
Dash of pepper
1/4 cup nonfat milk

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/3 cup skim milk cottage cheese
2/3 cup crunchy nut-like cereal nuggets
Heat tomatoes in a saucepan. Break up with fork. Season with 1/4 teaspoon onion salt and dash of pepper. Cover and keep hot while omelet is cooking.

Combine eggs, 1/2 teaspoon onion salt, dash of pepper, and nonfat milk; mix well. Melt butter in a skillet. Add egg mixture and cook over low heat. As omelet cooks, loosen edges gently with a spatula so that uncooked egg runs to the bottom. When mixture is almost set, spoon cottage cheese over top. Sprinkle with cereal. Loosen omelet around the sides and crease across the center with a spatula. Fold gently in half and slide onto a warm platter. Top with hot tomato mixture. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

SEX EDUCATION SET
CHICAGO (AP) — Sex education in suburban schools begins this fall under a program that frees it from a philosophical position.

Highland Park, Bannockburn and Deerfield districts in the North Shore area will introduce a program that was developed in Evanston, Ill., and San Francisco. The educators have been developing the system for more than a year.

"I don't think we should attempt to avoid the question of moral values," said Dr. Nathir Sara, who is serving as coordinator for the project.

"Absolutism in moral judgment based on conventional morality is no longer effective," he said. "The whole purpose of this program is to prepare students so that they may make rational decisions which are in their best interest from a point of physical and emotional well being."

As recipes go, Seafood Grab Bags and Campsite Rice would seem to have a lot in common. Both are based on packaged enriched pre-cooked rice; both are cooked in foil over hot coals. But there the similarity ends. Seafood Grab Bags are sophisticated entrees worthy of tutored palates while Campsite Rice is for kids — though counselors and parents can, and will, enjoy it, too.

The first recipe of succulent shrimp, scallops, and rice in heavy cream with a trace of brandy is suggested for mature audiences only. To carry the seafood safely to the picnic grounds, seal it securely in a plastic container or plastic bag; then pack in ice in a cooler or a larger container.

Vegetable kebabs are elegant accompaniments to this seafood entree and can cook along with them. At home, thread tomato wedges or cherry tomatoes on to skewers, along with mushroom caps, tiny onions, and so on. Wrap tightly in plastic wrap and tuck into the ice with the seafood. On location, once the coals are right, you'll have a sylvan repast for gourmets in just about 20 minutes.

For family cookouts or troop maneuvers where good, wholesome, filling food — not cuisine — is what you need, Campsite Rice is the right choice. Cheddar cheese, catsup, and minced onion season the pre-cooked rice for a rousing accompaniment for hot dogs or hamburgers. Better still, the recipe is easy enough for the most junior member of the Cub Scout troop to make, solo.

SEAFOOD GRAB BAGS
1 pound raw shrimp, peeled and deveined
1 pound scallops (+)
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced

1 1/3 cups packaged enriched pre-cooked rice
2 tablespoons brandy
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup heavy cream
1/3 cup milk
4 sheets heavy duty aluminum foil, about 12x18 inches

Combine shrimp, scallops, mushrooms, rice, brandy, salt, and pepper. Blend cream and milk. Place 1 sheet of aluminum foil in a mixing bowl. Press into bowl to form pouch. Place one-fourth of the seafood mixture in pouch; then add one-fourth of the blended cream. Gather top of foil together and seal tightly. Remove from bowl. Repeat shaping and filling of pouches, using the 3 additional sheets of foil and the other remaining ingredients. Set the four foil pouches on a grill over hot coals or directly in the ashes of an open fire. Heat about 20 minutes. Before serving, open foil pouch and fluff rice with a fork. Makes 4 cups or 4 servings.

NOTE: Filled pouches may be baked in a 500 degree oven for 20 minutes, if desired.

CAMPSITE RICE
32-inch length heavy duty aluminum foil
1 1/3 cups water
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup catsup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
1 1/3 cups packaged enriched pre-cooked rice
Fold foil in half. Press into a large bowl to form a pouch. Place all ingredients in the pouch, except the rice. Mix well to blend seasonings. Stir in rice and mix just to moisten all rice. Gather top of foil together and seal pouch tightly. Remove from bowl. Place on grill over hot coals. Heat for about 20 minutes. Then open foil and fluff rice with a fork. Serve with grilled frankfurters or hamburgers. Makes about 2 2/3 cups or 4 servings.

SEAFOOD GRAB BAGS
A little ingenuity with foil and packaged enriched pre-cooked rice makes a gourmet's entree out of Seafood Grab Bags. Shrimp, scallops and rice in heavy cream and a trace of brandy cook in about 20 minutes, once the coals are white-hot.

BANNERS MEAN VICTORIES
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — In the late 1920s and early 1930s it was a Blue Grass tradition to ring a victory bell at Idle Hour Stock Farm to announce that another Col. E. R. Bradley thoroughbred had won the Kentucky Derby.

Now Leslie Combs II has a new gimmick. When one of his Spendthrift Farm horses wins a major stake race a winning pole carries a banner.

The banners are orange and blue in the shape of a prize show ribbon.

Nation's Largest Brokerage House Is Charged with Fraud by SEC

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, the nation's largest brokerage house, and 14 of its officers and salesmen were charged with fraud Tuesday in an administrative proceeding filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The S.E.C. alleged that the firm had provided inside financial information about the Douglas Aircraft Co. to 15 investment companies or their managers, all of which also were charged with fraud.

The case has major implications for the securities industry and is the most significant action taken by the S.E.C. since the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. "Insiders Case" was filed in 1966. The S.E.C. won an Appellate Court victory in that case two weeks ago.

The inside information allegedly provided by Merrill Lynch consisted of a report that the earnings of Douglas in the six months ended May 31, 1966, would be down sharply. According to the S.E.C., this enabled the investment companies to avoid losses by selling their Douglas stock or to make profits by selling the stock short.

Profits are made on short sales when the price of a stock declines. The investor borrows the stock and sells it, waits for it to decline, then buys it back at the lower price and returns it to the lender. His profit is the amount of the decline, minus

Czech-Soviet Agreement Said Victory for Gomulka

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WARSAW — Czechoslovakia's agreement permitting Soviet troops to control her border with West Germany represents a muted victory for Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, political observers said here Tuesday.

Acceptance of this basic Polish demand was reported in news dispatches from Prague quoting official Czechoslovak sources. It was indirectly confirmed Tuesday night in the first official Polish comment on the agreement reached in Moscow between Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union.

An official television commentator announced Poland's satisfaction with the settlement which "confirmed the correctness" of the invasion. The agreement "guarantees the defensibility of the western outpost of the Warsaw Pact and of Poland's southern flank," he added.

"We have now obtained the basic guarantee" that previous Czechoslovak promises to her Soviet Bloc allies will be kept, he said.

Political observers expected the stationing of troops along the Czechoslovak-West German frontier to dampen temporarily much domestic criticism of Poland's participation in the invasion. That criticism has made itself felt inside and out of party ranks.

However, informed Communist sources predicted that the methods employed during the invasion will play a major role in the next episode of the unresolved five-month-old power struggle within the Polish Communist Party.

Advocates of Mieczyslaw Moczar, the former interior minister and one of Gomulka's chief rivals, have privately criticized the handling of the intervention.

They have suggested that Poland could have achieved the same ends without offering the world the humiliating spectacle displayed since the occupation of Czechoslovakia began a week ago.

Poland's loss of prestige and the compromising of its carefully maintained image as the freest member of the Soviet Bloc is a regrettable casualty of the invasion, they concede.

But they appear to agree with Gomulka, who was reported to have told a Polish journalist worried about the effect of the invasion on Communist and left-wing parties in the West: "A sparrow in the cage is worth a canary on the roof."

The importance of sealing off the only unprotected frontier of the Warsaw Pact nations with the west, especially with West Germany, cannot be underestimated in Poland, observers noted. A generation of official propaganda has relentlessly insisted on the alleged threat of the "revenge-seeking" Bonn government.

The official announcement of the settlement followed the appearance overnight of clandestine tracts in Warsaw denouncing Polish participation in the invasion.

FACTS & ISSUES from the League of Women Voters of Warren Area

To concentrate on two borough groups deeply involved in Warren's future, we focus on the council planning committee first. It is one of Warren Borough Council's standing committees. Raymond A. Marti, elected by the 9th Ward voters, is the chairman. The other two members are Rockwell O'Sheilly, sent to council by the 3rd Ward electorate, and Edwin E. Sullivan, of the 4th Ward.

This committee reports to the borough council on planning ideas, presenting them in the form of motions, ordinances or resolutions. Many of its suggestions are developed by a very important but little known group, the Warren Borough Planning Commission. The council planning committee is responsible, however, for the makeup of the commission, seeking new members for it when needed and presenting their names to council for approval.

Changes in Warren—public buildings, housing, parking, street systems—can all be initiated by the Borough Planning Commission. In the past this five-man government body accomplished many things. It watched over the creation of a Master Plan for Warren borough, updated the zoning ordinance, drew up the new building codes, hired a firm to do the Neighborhood Analysis. (The analysis, by the way, makes fascinating reading because it tells the present condition of all our houses, public buildings, and the use of land. It is available at Warren Public Library, as are the codes.)

It must be remembered that the Planning Commission is an advisory group to the council, looking ahead, studying and recommending plans which will lead to an orderly development of the borough through the years. Too, it can work with Warren County Planning Commission when related ideas are developed.

John Eberly is chairman. The members are Shuri Glass, Charles Cable, Kendall Morrison, and John Lutz, who is also president of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce.

Many towns and cities across the nation have planning commissions. Warren's was started 16 years ago. This year the commission will probably consider several problem situations. One concerns updating downtown Warren so that this does not become a blighted area. This tragic state has happened in some nearby towns, but it mustn't happen to Warren.

Development of the Penn-Market area to Hickory street is up for study. There are such possibilities as a downtown motel complex, a park, and more space to park automobiles.

It is quite important that low cost housing be considered. Traffic control is another puzzler which must be solved. Our next topic will be the Warren Borough Parking Authority, how it functions and what its powers are. Please look for another Facts and Issues column from the League of Women Voters in two weeks.

position vigorously."

The concern has 15 days in which to respond to the proceeding. A hearing examiner appointed by the commission later will render a decision, which Merrill Lynch could appeal to the full commission. The full commission's ruling then could be appealed to an Appellate Court.

Named in the proceeding were Winthrop C. Lenz, executive vice president and chairman of the executive committee of Merrill Lynch; Julius H. Sedlmayer, vice president and a director; Glette K. Martin, a senior vice president and George L. Shinn, also a senior vice president.

Other Merrill Lynch executives named were Edward M. McMillen, senior vice president and a director; and Archangelo Catapano, Dean S. Woodman, Norman H. Heindel Jr. and Philip F. Bilbao, all vice presidents.

Five Merrill Lynch salesmen also were named. They are Lee W. Ideman, Lawrence Zicklin, James A. McCarthy, Elias A. Lazor and Chester T. Smith Jr., all of whom worked in the firm's institutional sales office here.

The investment companies named in the proceeding include the Investors Management Company, the Madison Fund, the Dreyfus Corporation, J. M. Hartwell & Co., Hartwell Associates, and Park Westlake Associates.

Also named were Van Strum & Towne; Fleschner Becker Associates; A. W. Jones & Co.; A. W. Jones Associates; City Associates; Fairfield Partners; Burden Investors Services and William A. M. Burden & Co.

Another concern, J. M. Hartwell & Co., Inc.—as opposed to J. M. Hartwell & Co.—also was named a respondent for a technical reason. The two are the same entity, according to an S.E.C. spokesman.

Specifically, the S.E.C. charges that Merrill Lynch became privy to information about the earnings decline at Douglas in 1966 because the brokerage firm at the time was acting as the prospective managing underwriter of a proposed Douglas offering of $75 million in convertible debentures.

On June 7, 1966, Douglas issued an earnings report showing profits of 85 cents a share for the five months ended April 30. The company subsequently, on June 24, issued an earnings statement showing a profit of 12 cents a share for the six months through May 31.

The second earnings statement also expressed the opinion of management that earnings for the full fiscal year ending Nov. 30 would be nominal, if any at all. According to the S.E.C., Merrill Lynch learned of the second report before its release to the public and disclosed the information to the institutional customers named in the proceeding.

Thereafter, the S.E.C. charged, the investment companies sold from existing positions or made short sales of Douglas stock in amounts exceeding 180,000 shares, without informing any of the purchasers of the stock about the earnings decline.

According to the commission, Merrill Lynch's compensation for providing the information consisted of commissions from the execution of securities transactions for these institutional customers, as well as "give-ups."

Conventions Point Up Potential Of Once Lowly Mobile Homes

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Apart from balloons, straw hats, and the barbed wire ringing the International Amphitheater in Chicago, perhaps no product has received greater attention because of the national political conventions than the once lowly mobile home.

At Miami Beach, the candidates used more than a dozen of these structures as communications centers, strategic headquarters, and V.I.P. lounges. At Chicago, Mayor Richard J. Daley has had units placed around his city as demonstrations of what might be done quickly and cheaply to provide housing for the urban poor. The industry finds it difficult to describe exactly what it makes. Manufacturers winced when Chet Huntley or David Brinkley announced that Richard M. Nixon was emerging from his "trailer." But they concede that they have no word to describe the new factory-built modular units, complete with furniture, appliances and other amenities, that, shorn of wheels, are stacked together to form multiple dwelling units. These, plus "Double-Wides"

-- two units bolted together to form a single dwelling of conventional dimension and roofline placed upon a permanent foundation -- appear to be the markets of the future.

The official housing figures still take no account of mobile home production. Already, however, the industry accounts for well over a quarter of all single-family dwellings produced and for more than three out of four of all single-family dwellings selling below $12,500.

Output this year is expected to increase by more than 20 per cent over last year's record of 240,370. Single-family dwelling starts last year totaled 820,700. The conventional housing industry has virtually priced itself out of the low-income market. In 1947, when Levittown became a symbol of value in mass-produced housing, homes in that New York City suburb could be purchased for $7,500. Today, New Jersey homes by the same builder start at $17,500.

The higher prices reflect higher incomes and better tastes. They also reflect higher land costs and higher labor and material costs.

These explanations, however, do little to meet the needs of well over half the eligible home-buyers who just can't afford the luxury of on-site construction. At $15 or so a square foot, on-site construction is roughly double the cost of average mobile home space.

John Martin of the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association says that 65 per cent of eligible home-buyers make less than $8,000 a year. A rule of thumb is that a purchaser should not spend more than two and a half times his annual income on a home. With most new conventionally constructed homes priced at $20,000 or more, this vast segment of the market is virtually excluded from home ownership -- unless some alternative such as mobile home production can meet the need.

The inflation in on-site housing costs hits particularly at two age groups growing rapidly at the present time, young married couples and retired people. Both are groups with limited incomes. Both, thus, are prime prospects for mobile homes.

In a recent economic report, the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith noted that the housing market is not one but two, a single-family dwelling market, and a multiple-family dwelling market.

Although the cost and availability of mortgage money is vital to both markets, Merrill Lynch finds, it exercises a far more constricting influence on multiple-family than on single-family construction. The single-family market is affected importantly also by construction costs, the multiple-family market by profitability considerations.

But the chief difference between the two markets is demographic. The market for single-family dwellings is centered among 25-to-34-year-olds, while the market for multiple-family housing is among younger persons.

Another near-record number of postwar babies reaching the age of 21 in 1968, and again in 1969, should assure strong demand for multiple-family dwellings, Merrill Lynch observes. A substantial, but smaller, growth in households headed by persons 25-to-34 years old should create a modest increase in demand for single-family homes.

Convention Wit Sharp But Knives Mostly Blunt

CHICAGO (AP) — The wit was sharp but the knives were mostly blunted Tuesday in the first direct confrontation of the three leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In manner, George S. McGovern, the man with the least to lose and the most to gain, appeared the most relaxed, humblest and smilingest. Hubert H. Humphrey, the front-runner with the most to lose, seemed the most up tight. Eugene J. McCarthy, whose moods are always difficult to gauge, may have been the saddest or most tired or most indifferent.

All three, old friends, all liberals and all from the Midwest, appeared together in a hotel ballroom before the mighty uncommitted California delegation, whose views are largely anti-administration and whose primary election was won last spring by Robert F. Kennedy.

Now and then the candidates zinged each other but the result would contribute little to anybody's blood bank.

Humphrey, taut and somber on the classic tightrope between him and the President, asked, "Do you mind if I just state MY views on Vietnam?" This produced loud moans from delegates not in the mood for bobbing and weaving.

McCarthy declined comment on the grounds that his position was well known.

McGovern, whose campaign began only 17 days ago, grabbed the mike with the explanation, "I can't afford to give up any free time."

McCarthy, asked if he was ready to support another candidate with similar views, unsheathed his shiv slightly with a smile at Humphrey and the comment, "I don't know why you ask that of the candidate who is running ahead in the polls." Humphrey smiled back -- weakly, some thought.

"I've said," McCarthy continued, "I would support Robert Kennedy and more recently Edward Kennedy if their views agreed with mine. Now I'm waiting for others to say the same about me."

What qualities do they look for in a vice-presidential candidate?

McGovern, the poor relative, said he assumed the question was based on the assumption that he had the presidential nomination locked up, a premise even his mother hasn't adopted. That laugh out of the way, McGovern turned serious and painted the picture of a superman.

Humphrey, to the moderator: "Tell George I just can't accept it." This was the only time the vice president scored on the laugh meter.

McCarthy: "I think we ought to find that man and all of us support him. If he's here, will he please stand up?"

McGovern said he really hadn't had time to consider a vice president or even consider a cabinet or whom he'd fire, two direct shots at McCarthy.

Said McCarthy: "I wasn't the only one who had the time to pass judgment (to fire) Gen. Hershey, J. Edgar Hoover and Dean Rusk. As for drawing up a tentative cabinet, that took only 30 minutes. At that, it would be a better cabinet than we have now."

Most everybody laughed. Hubert Humphrey was a conspicuous exception.

Six Priests To Be Removed From Faculty

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Six Roman Catholic priests will be removed from the faculty of St. John Vianney Seminary in nearby East Aurora this week because they objected to part of Pope Paul VI's ban on artificial birth control, the Buffalo Evening News reported Tuesday.

The priests expressed their views of the Pope's July 29 encyclical in a private letter to the Most Rev. James A. McNulty, bishop of the Buffalo Catholic Diocese, the newspaper said. The six will be reassigned.

Neither Bishop McNulty nor chancery officials would comment.

Last week, another seminary faculty member was reassigned because of a difference with the papal encyclical.

The Rev. Thomas G. Dalley, a professor of moral theology, was transferred to the pastorate of St. Mary's church in Batavia. He was among American Catholic theologians who initially dissented from the encyclical.

The six priests, who met with Bishop McNulty Monday, were the Revs. Christian J. Puehn, dean of studies; Paul J. Belzer, registrar and professor philosophy; Charles R. Amico, professor of dogmatic theology and homiletics; Kevin King, librarian; Francis A. Regan of the Boston Archdiocese and a spiritual director and teacher of church history; and James F. Kogler, professor of moral theology.

Catholic Assembly Wants Birth Control Study

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 10th World Assembly of Pax Romana said Tuesday the subject of birth control needs more study, despite Pope Paul's encyclical forbidding Roman Catholics to practice contraception.

In a resolution passed here Tuesday, the assembly of Roman Catholic scholars and sociologists from 40 countries said "difficulties arose during its own deliberations" over the encyclical.

The assembly added "it sees in this latest act of the magisterium, however, an invitation to reflection and further investigation of the dimensions of human love and sexuality, taking into account the views of experts in theological, scientific and pastoral domains and especially the experience of married people."

Eighty voting delegates voted for the resolution. There were four negative votes and four abstentions.

Allegheny River Bridge Dedication on Friday

EMLENTON, Pa. — The highest bridge east of the Mississippi, ranked nationally by only four others in Colorado and Utah, will be dedicated Friday at this Venango County community.

Soaring 270 feet above water level, Allegheny River Bridge will carry Interstate 80 traffic across a plunging gorge near the junction of Venango, Butler and Clarion counties, about 55 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

The $4.4 million structure, which took more than four and a half years to complete, is part of an 18-mile gap on Interstate 80 between Emlenton and Clarion, which will be officially closed during Friday's ceremonies. This will provide more than 100 miles of continuous expressway from the Ohio border, east to Reynoldsville in Jefferson County. Arching over the gorge cut into the Allegheny Mountains by the river millions of years ago, the 1,668-foot cantilever type bridge comprises three continuous truss spans. Esthetic values were retained in design of the bridge to accent its dramatic height.

Considerably higher than both the famed Golden Gate bridge, San Francisco and George Washington over the Hudson in New York, Allegheny River Bridge has no competition on the entire 2,898-mile Interstate 80 from coast to coast. Closing of the I-80 gap from Route 38, Emlenton, eastward to Route 66 (Shippensburg Interchange)

The birth control resolution also stated the principal cause of poverty is caused by "the maintenance of unjust social, economic and political structures, international and national."

"These structures impede development and equitable sharing of the world's wealth by the family of mankind. Poverty is due primarily to the unwillingness of privileged classes and nations to share their resources with the underprivileged."

At the urging of delegates from Asia, South America and Africa, the statement condemned "the practice of making foreign aid programs conditional upon the acceptance by the poorer classes of birth control campaigns or of family planning programs based on racist motivation or discrimination against the poor."

The action came at the closing session of a six-day meeting at St. Joseph's College.

SCHOOL SECRETARIES MEET

Warren Area High School Tuesday was the scene of a special sessions for secretaries serving in the various county schools. Emphasis was placed on communication and better personal relations between the "bosses" and secretaries as well as with others. The in-service training day was in the hands of Fred Miller, director, Public Service Institute, Department of Public Instruction and Miss Viola Harris, supervisor, DPI, Public Service Institute. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Helen Mathews, food supervisor with principals participating in the morning session only. Certificates were presented by Miller and George Fritts. (Photo by Mansfield)

State's Nursing Homes Double; Quality of Care on Decline

(Editor's Note: The number of beds at nursing homes has nearly doubled in the last decade, but authorities say the quality of care for the elderly has not kept pace. Here is a report.)

HARRISBURG (AP) — "That is no country for old men," says the anonymous pensioner in William Butler Yeats' poem "Sailing to Byzantium."

The Yeats character is on his way to an ancient land to take his place among its graceful antiquities.

Unfortunately, for most of Pennsylvania's 1,000,000 elderly citizens, there is little beauty in antiquity. As age undermines usefulness, the aged person prepares himself not for dreamy Byzantium but for the "cold storage" of a nursing home.

In the past ten years the number of beds maintained by the state's nearly 600 profit-making and public nursing homes has nearly doubled. Today the figure stands at nearly 65,000. But, according to the Department of Public Welfare's commissioner of family services,

4 Pennsylvania Communities Ranked Lowest in Crime Rate

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation's latest uniform crime report ranked four Pennsylvania communities among the top five for having the lowest crime rate in the nation last year.

According to the report released this week, the FBI's crime index ranked Johnstown first with a crime rate of 367.7 serious offenses per 100,000 population.

Wilkes-Barre-Hazleton, 497.4, was second; Lancaster 555.5, third; and Altoona, 608.0, fifth.

Philadelphia, the state's largest metropolis, also fared well in the statistical report with a rate of less than one-half that of such major urban centers as New York, San Francisco, Miami, Baltimore, Detroit and others.

Philadelphia's crime index rate was 1,363.4 per 100,000. The top 10 cities in terms of highest rates — New York leading the way — ranged from 3,000 to 3,200 per 100,000.

Statewide, Pennsylvania was well below the national average of 1,921 per 100,000 at 1,092.

Despite the encouraging statistical data, a ranking executive of the Pennsylvania Crime Commission said it was difficult to analyze the report for the factors which contributed to the results.

"We would hope that it's because of effective law enforcement and a high degree of reporting in Pennsylvania," said Maj. Arthur W. Shulenberg, deputy director of the commission.

"But we must remember these statistics are gathered by local communities reporting directly to the federal government. We have no central reporting station in Pennsylvania."

"We know that the potential for crime or conflict will vary markedly according to environment and density and composition of the population."

"We have before the General Assembly a proposal to set up a Bureau of Criminal Statistics in the Justice Department. With such a central agency here, we can take a look at the raw statistics and ask why was this so. We are hopeful that the plan will be approved."

Of the three leading statistical areas in Pennsylvania and the nation, only Johnstown could claim a reduction in its crime index.

Columnist Finds Warren 'Unusually Attractive'

Gilbert Love, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette columnist, recently concentrated on Warren, which he termed "Pleasant Town."

Love wrote — "If you were looking around for an unusually attractive town to inhabit, this northern Pennsylvania community (Warren) could be well up on your list."

According to the writer, Dale Williams' of the U.S. Army Engineer office in Pittsburgh, while discussing the Kinzua Dam project, said he had never seen a run-down house in Warren.

Love stated, however, that on his trip here, he finally found one run-down house which was offset by a row of "monumental buildings — a library, club, churches, etc. — much like those found in Pittsburgh's Civic Center in Oakland."

Columnist Finds Warren 'Unusually Attractive'

Warren's Three Flags came in for attention as did the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau and the information center.

In a conversation with Leroy Schneck of Station WNAE, Love was advised of Warren's growing pains, one of which, the local program director noted, was the scarcity of restaurants open on Sundays.

The columnist concluded — "I had just experienced that. Arriving at 7 p.m. I checked into my motel, washed up and went to a restaurant I knew at the other end of town. It had just closed its doors for the day. Two other places I tried weren't open at all on Sunday."

"Finally I stood in line at a drive-in, bought a chicken dinner in a carton and took it back to my room."

Health Services to Pupils Cost $49,624 in 1966-67

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — Health services to pupils in schools of Warren County School District cost $49,624.51 in state funds for the 1966-67 school year, according to the State Department of Health.

Reimbursement in that amount from state funds has been made by the department to this school district, department officials said yesterday.

Services were provided in nursing, costing $36,987.00; medical, $8,228.59 and dental, $4,428.92.

Payments to school districts from state funds are on a basis of up to $3.50 per pupil in average daily membership in a school during the school term for nursing services, eighty cents per pupil for medical services and forty cents per pupil for dental services.

In cases where school districts operate a dental program, approved by the department, payment up to $1.00 per pupil is made in this category.

Health services are provided pupils of parochial and non-profit private schools as well as public school pupils. Non-public school pupils receive the services in public schools.

A total of $50,605.57 was previously paid to this school district for health services provided in the 1965-66 school year, according to the department.

Theft Reported At Drake Well State Museum

TITUSVILLE — The theft of at least 16 pieces of valuable paper money from Drake Well Museum has been reported to state police. All are more than 100 years old.

The bills, issued by oil region institutions, are in denominations from 12 cents to $20. They are from a large collection of oil industry items in the state-owned museum.

Market value of the missing money has not been determined, but dealers call the fractional currency, for less than $1, scarce.

No indication of forcible entry has been found. Night watchmen have reported no disturbance of any kind. The museum is open to the public every day of the week, closing at 5 p.m.

The money was kept in unlocked drawers and filing cabinets in the library, to which visitors are not admitted unless for research or study.

The staff of the museum, headed by Alan W. Perkins, curator, numbers about 14.

Money dealers throughout the region have been given lists of the missing bills. The oldest piece is a 12-cent promissory note of 1837 from Oil Creek Mills, Titusville. The newest is an 1865 $20 bill from the Oil City Bank. The Petroleum Bank of Titusville and the Lumbermans Bank of Warren are both represented.

Former Resident Released on Bail

A 24-year-old former Warren resident, Leonard Ernest Carruth, 24, who at one time resided at 804 Pennsylvania ave., E., charged with violation of the Uniform Firearms Act, was released Tuesday on $500 cash bail.

Borough police said he was apprehended on a warrant issued following an incident in late July at Riverside Hotel when the accused pulled a concealed, loaded revolver and allegedly threatened patrons.

According to police, they were unable to locate Carruth but on Monday afternoon Clearfield-based state police picked the man up for a traffic violation. A record check was made with Warren which resulted in Sgt. Willard Zerbe and Edward Peterson going to Clearfield to apprehend Carruth, returning here at 1 a.m. Tuesday.

The gun in question was not registered, police said.

Conservation District Meet Highlights

At the regular August meeting of the Warren County Soil and Water Conservation District, in the conference room at the Court House recently, chairman Gerald Bensink recounted highlights of the meeting of the Northeast Conference for the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts at Aroostook State College, Presque Isle, Maine, which he attended recently.

Considerable time was spent reviewing the "Goodyear Contest Booklet." Object is to determine whether the district has made progress in areas in which it has been weak, and approximately what the district's total score will be. This is a national contest conducted for Soil and Water Conservation Districts only, by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Among other items discussed were the successful exhibit of the Warren County Soil and Water Conservation District at the Warren County Fair. Elmer Blystone, a director of the District, and Lyle G. Cathart, Work Unit Conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, were in charge of the exhibit.

Executive Secretary Jack Reddick reported the District's long range plan is about ready to go to the publisher. The cover design submitted was approved by the directors.

Tentative date for the annual planning meeting and dinner was set for Jan. 7, 1969. James Marshall, director, and Jack Reddick, secretary, were named by Bensink to make plans for the dinner.

Ice Cream Social Tonight at EHS

An Ice Cream Social, sponsored by the Eisenhower High School cheerleaders will be conducted from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. today (Wednesday) on Burlington's lawn, Russell, across from the Russell church. In case of rain the social will be held at the fire hall.

"We're going to have more and more elderly," Cohen said, "more and more elderly. And we have to farm as good as we know how."

EQUESTRIAN CHAMPION

Miss Lynn Christensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Christensen, of 19 Conewango pl., was one of the top winners at Spruce Land in Java, N.Y. last Saturday. The young horsewoman received tri-color ribbons for junior championship class as well as a trophy and blue ribbon for highest award in balanced seat equitation. Judging was on walk, trot and canter, hands and seat control. About 60 boys and girls were in all English equitation competition. (Photo by Mansfield)

MRS. HELEN GARY AND MRS. ELEANOR SANDBLADE have just completed an interesting "Workshop Course" held at the Park-Sheraton in New York City for teachers, mathematics supervisors and school administrators. Mrs. Gary teaches 3rd grade at Seneca School, and Mrs. Sandblade is on the Beaty Junior High School teaching staff. The course, which began on August 19th and concluded on the 23rd, was officially called "Exploring Mathematical Cuisenaire Colored Rods" The teachers attended from twenty-one states and covered a wide cross-section of the educational field including, one from the Prairie School in Racine, Wisc. (this is a school financed by the Johnson Wax Company), nuns, rabbis, a Chinese who is a research consultant in a Title 3 Project, one from a school for the deaf, one from a Mennonite school, two from a Lutheran parochial school, and quite a few college teachers. Mrs. Sandblade, who gave me the information, said it was a most fascinating course; that no more than two were accepted from any single school district at the national workshop, and that all the lectures were given by Dr. John Kunz, educational director of the Cuisenaire Company of America, Inc. Classes were held from 9 to 4 o'clock each day.

THE DATE FOR WARREN ART LEAGUE'S SIDEWALK ART SHOW has been announced for Saturday, September 21st. This is one of the most picturesque (and I mean no pun) events in the county The Warren County Courthouse, stately looking with its tall trees, green lawns and wrought iron fence, forms a perfect background for the displaying of paintings in the various media by area artists. Even for those members of the public who at that moment are not in the market to buy, it is fun just to leisurely browse and look. Mrs. Myron Jewell once again is chairman of the show.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN E. YOUNG of Spring Creek are to be honored with a party on the occasion of their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, September 8th. The affair will take place in the Educational Building at the Berea Lutheran Church from 2 to 5 o'clock. All friends and relatives are invited.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I disagree with your reply to Galatea, the girl who wondered about a gentleman who wore his Phi Beta Kappa key as a lapel piece.

I am one of many who has earned a Phi Beta Kappa key but I don't dare wear it because of all the smart aleck remarks. Why is it that if one has earned membership in this elite society he is considered an egomaniac if he wears his key? Is there any other society whose members have to keep their identity hidden like that?

If a soldier earns a ribbon or a medal he wears it with pride and people respect him for it. But the person who wears a Phi Beta Kappa key is accused of showing off. Why? Why? Why? — KEYED UP

DEAR UP: That column produced a blizzard of letters. I didn't realize I had so many Phi Beta Kappas in my reading audiences. Most of the people who wrote said they'd like to wear their keys but they can't take the ribbing. I hereby encourage all members of Phi Beta Kappa to take out your keys and wear them. If any wizenheimer pops off tell him you'll take your key off if he'll put his on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a friend who is fat as a cow. She says that more than anything in the world, she loves to eat and she will not give up this pleasure.

She also would like to have a nice figure, which is very hard to do considering that she is constantly stuffing herself with candy, cake, cookies, caramel corn and everything fattening you can think of.

Last week my friend told me she has hit on a system that will allow her to eat whatever she pleases and not put on weight. She packs in the rich food and then she goes to the bathroom and forces herself to throw up. She claims if the food is not in her it will not make her gain weight.

Is this true or false? — THE ASKER

DEAR ASKER: It is false, foolish and dangerous. When your friend throws up the food she also loses the gastric juices which are essential to good health. The girl sounds cuckoo to me and I hope she will see a doctor and get on a sensible diet before she wrecks her health.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a widow in my late 40's. A few weeks ago my father-in-law died. He was not a wealthy man but he left me 50 per cent of his estate. The balance was divided between his two daughters.

I received a call from one of his daughters saying I should be a lady and sign over my share of the estate to her and her sister because the will was written while my husband was alive and now that he is dead I am not entitled to anything because I am not legally related. She promised me a court fight if I refuse and added, "You would surely lose, my dear, and the publicity would be dreadful."

My father-in-law was a dear man and I enjoyed having him in my home. He did not have a good relationship with his daughters or their husbands and spent very little time with them.

I am not hard up for money but I don't want to be intimidated. Please tell me what to do. — SHADES OF BLUE

DEAR SHADES: See a lawyer and learn what your rights are. Don't discuss this with anyone and don't sign anything without legal counsel.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dads Have State Meeting In Kane

At the recent State Department of the Dads of Foreign Service Veterans in Kane, election of officers was held. Among those who will serve the State organization for the next year are three from Warren: R. W. Swanson as junior vice president; Winton Hancock, treasurer; William Eaver, secretary.

The Dads of Foreign Service Veterans was organized in 1944 and is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The prime motive of the Dads group is to complement the work of the VFW. The Dads of Foreign Service Veterans support all V.F.W. legislative proposals for veterans' benefits, render service to hospitalized veterans, and to veterans' orphans. Membership is open to a father or step-father of a son or daughter whose service in any branch of the armed forces of this nation is recognized as Foreign Service.

The Warren Dads meet once a month at the V.F.W. Post 631 on the second Tuesday of each month at 8 p. m. The local officers are: President, R.W. Swanson; senior vice president, Angus Bailey; junior vice, John Dutches; chaplain, Francis Gilson; treasurer, Lester Akeley; secretary, William Weaver; sgt.-at-arms, Leroy Bennett; guard, Conrad Traub; judge advocate, Winton Hancock; 3-year trustee, Richard Swanson; 2 years, Francis Gilson; and 1 year, Lester Akeley.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Warren Dads will be held at V.F.W. Post 631 on Tuesday, September 10. It is hoped that there will be a good turnout of members.

Jerry VanGuilder, Corry, served as acolyte and Laura VanGuilder was in charge of the guest book. Nancy TerHune, Dana Rettberg, Karen Lundeen were at the gift tables.

A reception for 300 was held at Camp Findley Dining Hall at Findley Lake, N.Y. It was in the charge of the Women's Society of World Service. The tier wedding cake was decorated and created in rainbow colors and was served by Mrs. Emma Johnson of Tidioute, and Mrs. Frank Williams of Olean, N.Y.

The bride is a graduate of the Medical Secretary Course, Jamestown Community College, holds an R.N. degree from Gowanda School of Nursing, Gowanda, N.Y., and is a graduate of Edinboro State College, Edinboro, Pa. She is employed as School Nurse and Home Visitor by the Warren County School Board. The groom is employed by National Forge Co. of Irvine.

Guests were present from Buffalo, N.Y., Olean, N.Y., Salamanca, N.Y., Jamestown, N.Y., Warren, Pa., Tidioute, Pa., Titusville, Pa., Erie, Pa., Paris, Illinois, Celina, Ohio, Sherman, N.Y., Northeast, Pa., Windber, Pa.

Bible Club Has 1st Fall Meeting

The Ivory Baptist Church of Frewsburg was host to the August 28 meeting at which the president of the local committee, George Dingeldein, led devotions. Mr. Dingeldein emphasized the faithfulness of God, using Deuteronomy 7:9 and other Biblical references.

Gloria Dingeldein sang "In Times Like These." A good session of prayer was observed, and Mrs. May Minser presented ed the flannelgraph demonstration of the evening, closing with prayer.

The September 30 meeting will be in the Warren Bethel United Methodist Church.

Wilson-Zaprowski Vows Exchanged At Nuptial Mass

Susan Marie Wilson and Michael John Zaprowski exchanged their wedding vows in Holy Redeemer Church recently, with the Rev. Father Joseph Carlo of Our Lady of the Rosary Church, Niagara Falls, N. Y., as celebrant of the nuptial Mass and read the double ring rites. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wilson of Russell and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zaprowski of Salamanca, N.Y.

Wedding music was provided by Miss Kay Bossler, a cousin of the groom, at the organ. Mrs. Jack Bossler, aunt of the groom, Beth and Meg Kalamanka, Kay and Mary Bossler, all cousins of the groom, sang. Altar decorations included fern and bouquets of white gladioli and giant mums in gold vases.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a satin embroidered silk illusion gown over crystal silk in an a-line style with appliques of satin embroidered bouquets at the hemline and standing collar. It was designed and fashioned by the mother of the bride. Her floor length veil of tulle, bordered with satin embroidery, was secured by a pillbox of the same material over crystal silk. She carried a pendulum bouquet of white stephanotis and white roses with moss green velvet ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Cheryl Nichols of Buffalo, N. Y., was in apricot chiffon with satin touches. Her brief apricot silk veil depended from an apricot satin rose headpiece. Gowned identically were the bridesmaids, the Misses Karen Schneider, Sue Lowe and Lane Donovan. The flower girls Vicky and Becky Bachar of Butler, cousins of the groom, were dressed similarly to the adult attendants with halo headpieces of tangerine carnations. All the attendants carried pendulum arrangements of tangerine carnations and yellow roses with moss green velvet ribbon.

The best man was Thomas Sherman of Salamanca, N.Y., and ushers were Larry Bossler of Lockport, N.Y., cousin of the groom, John Satori of Salamanca, N.Y., Bill Wilson, brother of the bride.

Altar boys who served the Mass were Mike Smith of Milwaukee, Wisc., John Tures of Kenosha, Wisc., both fraternity brothers of the groom.

The groomsmen were Ken Olsen of Ramsey, N.J., Paul Burger and Keith Pinsoneault of Milwaukee, Wisc., also fraternity brothers of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose an ensemble of silk organza over aqua crepe, and the groom's mother, mint green. Both had corsages of white roses. Mrs. Henry S. Wilson, Mrs. Walter Corniels, Mrs. Michael Kalamanka and Mrs. Eva Adamic, grandmothers, were remembered with corsages of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception was held for two hundred guests at the Jackson Valley Country Club. Decorations were carried out with a silver bowl of yellow daisies and tangerine carnations, and silver candelabra, at the bride's table. The five tier wedding cake was topped with yellow roses. Aides were Mary Bossler, Meg Kalamanka, cousins of the groom, who had charge of the guest book.

For traveling to Cape Cod, Mass., the bride wore a mint green crepe dress and black patent accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Zaprowski will reside in Milwaukee, Wisc.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Warren Area High School and a 1968 graduate of Meyer Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Buffalo. The groom, a 1965 graduate of Salamanca High School, is a Senior at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wisc.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. John Kalamanka, Mrs. Jack Bossler, Mrs. Donald Bachar, Mrs. E. P. Taylor, the Misses Sue Lowe, Lane Donovan, Karen Schneider. The rehearsal dinner was given at the Penn Laurel. The bridesmaids luncheon was given at the home of the bride's parents.

BEVERLY A. SANDEEN (McGarry Studio)

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sandeen of 118 Yankee Bush road, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Beverly, to Gerald S. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Maurice White of Jamestown, N.Y.

Miss Sandeen is a 1965 graduate of Warren Area High School and is employed at Thomas Coupling Company, Div. of Rex Chainbelt. Her fiancé is a 1961 graduate of Jamestown High School, attended two years at Jamestown Community College, and served three years in the U.S. Army. He is employed at Crescent Tool Company, Jamestown, N.Y.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Guest Speaker

At Lander

Former Pastor

REV. K. E. PEARSON

The Rev. K. E. Pearson, who has served as interim pastor in the First Covenant Church in Jamestown, and as pastor of churches in Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, will be the guest speaker at the Labor Day Homecoming, an annual affair in Scandia, which opens at 10:30 with a service in the Scandia Covenant Church. Mr. Pearson also served as pastor of the area church for 14 years.

The Rev. Pearson is a graduate of North Park College, Chicago, Ill., and continued his studies in Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kansas.

The Ladies Aid will serve a ham dinner in the church dining room at 12:30. Everyone is invited to come and meet old and new friends on this day.

At the 10:30 service music will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Check. The afternoon feature is a 2 o'clock sports program, plus a concert in the church at 3 o'clock by organist Mrs. Check.

A hot dog stand will be in operation on the church lawn, and also in the afternoon, the young people's class is holding a bazaar.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I frequently give my children applesauce, gelatin, cottage cheese or canned fruit with their meals.

As these foods nearly always "run", I put it in individual paper cupcake liners and place one on each child's plate.

Sure saves a messy plate as well as extra dishes.

Lillian D'angelo

A cute idea, Lillian. It also perks up the child's interest by adding eye appeal to the plate, which is so important when serving little folks.

If you're a dishwasher and don't mind the extra dishes, those little pyrex custard cups are equally good for this. Makes whatever's inside sorta special, doesn't it? And no one is fussing about their food running together either!

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

You are a friend indeed...

When I was a working mother your hints saved my life many times. Now I save your hints to pass on to other working mothers.

Mrs. Bearman

DEAR HELOISE:

Make ice cream sandwiches

Heloise

The hot iron will loosen the glue, but it does take awhile.

If you grab the bottle cap with your kitchen tongs and hold a cigarette lighter under it for ten or fifteen seconds, the cork lining will come out all in one piece.

Just don't burn your "pinkies" and I hope you win.

DARLEEN PUSATERI

Among the nurses graduating on August 30 from Allegheny General Hospital School of Nursing will be Darleen Pusateri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pusateri of 26 N. Center street, Clarendon.

Miss Pusateri, a 1965 graduate of Warren Area High School, for the present will be employed on the nurses staff in Pediatrics at Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, Penna.

SHIRRED EGGS WITH SAUSAGES: In each buttered ramekin place two cooked pork sausages. Gently break an egg into each, and spoon over 1 tablespoon light cream. Bake in 350 degree oven until eggs are set (about 15 to 20 minutes).

Some men credit their business success to the fact that their wives need the money.

Two pieces by the controversial 20th century French composer, Olivier Messiaen, reflected the composer's Catholic mysticism. The second of these, "God Among Us", with its intricate finger work over a downward movement of the pedal (representing Christ's coming to earth from heaven in the form of man) brought the program to a spine-tingling conclusion.

Mr. Peterson effectively demonstrated Hindemith's idea of terraced dynamics in the neo-classic Sonata No. 1, and rendered an especially dazzling performance of the "Phantasia" section.

This type of music is particularly effective on the Holtkamp organ at Trinity Church, which is outstanding for its independent character of stops and purity of tone.

According to Carol Barrett Hoffman, a recital of musical worth and technical artistry was presented by William Peterson, organist, on Monday, August 26, at Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church. Mr. Peterson, a native of Warren, is a student at Oberlin Conservatory. His program covered representative organ literature of five centuries, and he exhibited a sensitive understanding of the styles of various composers.

The pre-Bach works had directness and precise delivery, with effective registration changes in the Pachelbel "Ciaccona in F Minor"—actually a set of variations over a repeated bass theme. Three Renaissance pieces, which perhaps because of their seeming naivety are not usually included on recital programs, were a welcome addition here. Compositions from this period point up the logical historical development of polyphony and rhythmic, motivic construction leading to the development of the Baroque style, which in turn influenced the development of the organ as an instrument.

Bach's monumental "Art of the Fugue" (a collection of twenty fugues written on the same theme) presents a formidable challenge to the most seasoned organist. Mr. Peterson performed three of these fugues with ease and skill, employing effective registrations which emphasized the linear texture. This type of music is particularly effective on the Holtkamp organ at Trinity Church, which is outstanding for its independent character of stops and purity of tone.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♠ North and South reached the only game contract that had a chance. A spade lead administered a sound trouncing to three no trump, for declarer must surrender the lead in either hearts or diamonds in order to develop nine tricks. Five clubs is defeated because the diamond finesse fails.

South opened the bidding with one club and West made a preemptive jump overall of two spades. North had something in reserve for his free raise to three clubs; however, a more drastic call would automatically catapult the partnership into game.

South's rebid of three hearts was well chosen. He was reluctant to gamble out three no trump with but a single stopper in spades and, besides, he did not want to by-pass the opportunity to uncover a fit in hearts. Although North's raise of a secondary suit with only three trumps is a trifle unorthodox, he felt that 10 tricks might be easier to take than 11. He was right.

West opened the king of spades and South played the ace. A heart was led to dummy's ten and East ducked. The jack of hearts was continued and East held off once more—hoping that declarer would play a third round.

South wisely decided to abandon hearts temporarily, in order to work on a side suit. The queen of diamonds was led for a finesse and West was in with the king. He cashed a high spade and then shifted back to a diamond. Declarer now drove out the ace of trumps, and was highly gratified to observe that the suit divided evenly. This left him with the only remaining trump which he used to ruff the spade return and then claimed the rest of the tricks.

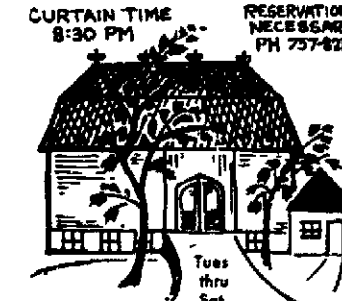

Observe that, if South leads a third round of trumps before he starts the diamonds, the defense will be able to force out declarer's last heart by playing a third round of spades. Now when West gets in with the king of diamonds, he can cash at least one spade trick and send South down to defeat.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—For your own benefit and the edification of others, bring to light one of your less known talents and capitalize on it. This day calls for ACTION — for which it will pay handsomely. TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—An average day, yet some new opportunities for furthering success will be offered: Some hidden, some fairly clear. Listen and look carefully.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—You will have more than a few chances to display your ingenuity and enterprise now. But how you manage and play the game will count heavily.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—This day should bring rewards for past efforts even if you seem to lack the initiative to start new enterprises. If expanding operations, however, move with caution. Consider all facts, trends.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—A better-than-average day if YOU remain firm and in the driver's seat — where the Leotis really belongs. If you waver, however, you may encourage others to be irresolute, thus hindering THEIR progress.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—You may find yourself out on one of those weak limbs, and maybe not through your own fault, but it WILL be your fault if you don't get back on the main trunk line! Use your innate ingenuity.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—A top day for displaying your canny sense of timing and ability to cut dead-wood from your schedule. Some new opportunities in the office.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Intuition, reflexes, the germination of new ideas stimulated now. Do not take on too much, however, or you could make errors through haste.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—The position of Jupiter stimulates your self-reliance and general ability. You will feel active and enterprising, but don't make changes in matters now running smoothly.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Under the influence of strongly favorable planets, you should be able to capitalize on your talents, increase your holdings, and win hitherto unattainable recognition. WORK AT IT!

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Some unusual situations indicated, extraordinary people with whom to deal. Use the Aquarian's intuition, ingenuity and ability to profit by experience in coping. Just be careful not to misinterpret situations.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—You should delight in the many opportunities to better your knowledge and understanding now. Both will help you in making plans for the immediate present and the future.

YOU BORN TODAY are versatile, yet do not always develop your talents fully. You can go along quietly for months, years, not evincing as much ability as you have, then suddenly branch out with brilliant ideas and leap ahead. Show more of your know-how and capacity daily, so others may read and heed. You gain better cooperation this way, too. You sense fine differences, are suited to sensitive work in progressive fields; can meet challenges sturdily and inject a laugh to ease tensions. You follow rules — can make up your own, too! Birthdate of Sir Edward Burne-Jones, painter; Elizabeth Seaton, founder Sisters of Charity; Johann Goethe, Ger. poet, dramatist.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(© 1968 By The Chicago Tribune)

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

ACCIDENT-PROOFING

More than 10 years ago our campaign against auto accidents involved changes in highways, cars, and drivers. Autos were the easiest to alter, because their life span is 10 years in contrast to roads that usually last 25. The average individual has a driving span of 40 years.

At that time we told of the difficulties physicians and safety experts had with auto manufacturers. "It will take popular opinion or legislation to force the incorporation of safety devices." Federal standards in the design of automobiles (including shoulder harnesses) have been introduced but it is too early to evaluate their effectiveness because it will take 10 years before sub-standard vehicles are off the road.

Seat belts may not bring miraculous results because accidents involve multiple causes. Defective equipment, headed by poor brakes, causes relatively few mishaps.

Better roads are helpful, especially when engineered in keeping with the modern car. But despite improvements, the slaughter continues, and many of the multiple causes center about the driver. Drunkenness is mentioned frequently in accident investigations. In Britain, the number of vehicle mishaps has gone down considerably since they require victims to take an alcoholic test. Our courts refuse to utilize any new device that aids in the conviction of violators.

Other accidents are traced to lack of familiarity with a new or rented car. Distractions and confusion also contribute. Poor communication between drivers — such as failure to yield or to use directional lights — plays a role. Temperament and emotional make-up are most important. People with uncontrollable, violent tempers are potentially dangerous when behind the wheel. Fatigue, physical disabilities, use of certain medicines, age, and suicidal tendencies play important roles in roadway slaughter.

TOMORROW: Social Diseases Rising.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

PRESSURE AND ARTERIES

B.P. writes: Does hardening of the arteries cause high blood pressure?

REPLY
Yes, but not the serious type. There is elevation of the systolic pressure with little or no change in the diastolic reading. With this type of hypertension the physician often makes the comment: "Your blood pressure is up a little but it's not serious, considering your age."

WHY MUSCLES CRAMP

S.P. writes: What causes muscle spasm in different parts of the body?

REPLY
Tissue irritability. The muscles go into spasm when injured, overstretched, or robbed of their blood supply. Irritability is also increased by drinking too much coffee or tea or heavy smoking. Other causes include pressure, irritation, or degeneration of the nerves that innervate these muscles.

Labor Day Weekend to Mark End of Season at Midway Park

A feature-filled Labor Day weekend, including a "jet-set" dance, will wind up the 1968 season at Midway Park near Maple Springs.

Frank Walsh, director of park activities, said "The Raiders", one of the area's top musical combos, will play for dancing in Midway Park's Sunset Room from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. Labor Day.

The Oil City musicians have gained wide renown in playing for shows and dances in the tri-state area.

Walsh said the dance, restricted to those 18 or older, is one of several features planned for the final weekend in the regular season.

He said Sunday, Sept. 1, will be observed at Midway as "Family Day", when coupons clipped from the newspaper will permit the purchase of 42 ride tickets for the price of 21.

On Labor Day, Midway will hold its annual "Double Ride-A-Rama" in which each person may pay a $1.50 fee and go on as many rides as desired before tween 1 and 5 p. m. The same fee will apply for unlimited rides between 6 and 10 p. m. Walsh said the final picnic of the year — and the largest will be held Sunday, Sept. 8, when close to 7,000 persons are expected to attend the annual outing for Marlin Rockwell employees and their families.

Wednesday's TV Movies

1:00 (26) "Mystery Submarine", Maria Toren, Macdonald Carey; 4:30 (12) "The Best Things in Life Are Free", Ernest Borgnine, Sherree North; 5:30 (7) "Across the Pacific", Charles Halton, Sen Yung; 7:00 (26) "Story of Molly X", John Houston, John Russell; 11:30 (7) "Colossus and the Amazon Queen", Rod Taylor, Ed Fury.

PHONE LANDING

John Wayne, as a Special Forces colonel, gives instructions to a helicopter for a South Vietnamese evacuation in "The Green Berets", the Batjac Production for Warner Bros.-Seven Arts opening today at the Library Theater. Wayne is the star and co-director of the Technicolor-Panavision film drama.

WHO IS A&P?

A&P is people... 135,000 loyal, dedicated people... people who know and believe in what their company stands for:

For more than a century, A&P has been fortunate to have such people... many of whom started as teenagers and have profited from our policy of promoting from within the company.

We think our A&P people are special. They know and believe in the basic philosophy of A&P: to bring the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money... and to CARE about what we sell and how we serve you.

We are proud of our A&P people... all 135,000 members of the A&P family. They are A&P. Without them, we wouldn't have you. Without you, we wouldn't be in business!

Cable Hollow Area Notes

By Mrs. Floyd Sumner
Phone 757-8447

Mr. and Mrs. Orville James Edquist of Englewood, Colorado, are the parents of a son, Eric John, born August 14, 1968. The young man weighed 6 lb. 8 oz. and 19 inches in length. Ernest Edquist, Russell, Pa. Rt. 2 is the paternal grandfather. The Edquists also have a daughter Joy Marlene. Eric Gary Russ of the 2nd How Bu. 31st Arty in Fort Sill, Oklahoma, is in one of the units that has been sent to Chicago, Illinois to help control rioting. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sumner on Saturday evening before they left for Chicago at 3 a.m.

Miss Evelyn Sumner and Miss Linda Radak, have accepted employment at the Sylvania plant in York, Pennsylvania. They will begin work on September 9, 1968.

James Fox returned to his school this week. His wife Edna remained with Mrs. Howard Fox for a time.

A group of 29 including young people accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Craker, Mr. and Mrs. John McGinn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burford and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cable motored to Akron, Ohio, on Saturday morning to return home on Sunday evening. They attended services at the Cathedral of Tomorrow.

The money to go on was earned by the youth, doing any kind of work to earn money. They cleaned houses, washed cars, held cookie sales, worked in yards and many other jobs. They all enjoyed a rich and lasting experience.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fox are home for a short visit. Jim's father, Howard Fox, is in ill health.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gage, Randy Gage, Mr. and Mrs.

Frances Lewis attended the Hamburg Fair on Monday. The Ladies Missionary Society held a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Jefferson Sears. Mrs. Vinton Finzer gave an interesting talk on the State Hospital.

Miss Kathryn Bair visited her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Carlson, in Punksutawney this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sumner, Kathryn Bair, Mark Stover and Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Tillyou enjoyed a trip to the Pennsylvania Grand Canyon and the Ice Mine of Coudersport, Pa., recently.

Miss Gloria Ellberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Van Cise, has arrived in Fairfield, California, where she will be teaching at the Fairfield High School. Enroute she visited her sister (Arlene) and family, Rev.

and Mrs. John Chilcott, La Porte, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Van Cise are leaving this week for a visit with Rev. and Mrs. John Chilcott and family, La Porte, Ind. They will take their son David to his school, God's Bible School, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Also visit in Chicago, Illinois.
